Olive Tree

Garden

This is a grouping of the boxes closer together with arch front to back. Also you can see some herbs on the out side of the box which I think gives a very nice look.

These are the same style of garden beds with the arch from bed to bed. I like the concept but might be more difficult for upkeep.

This is the style and color that I think will look nice for your garden space.

Left:

Here is a great example of using more drought tolerant plants, that are sculpted to make elevate the look. The olive tree becomes a focal point for the entry and there is some wispieness to give it a more romantic look.

Right:

This is the same garden. There are some plants that I know your not a fan of (not a problem). I hope that you do notice the white roses though. If in the future we find that we want to add some roses, this planting scheme still gives us the ability to add them later.

Pots/ Fountain

Here is updated pot that helps bridge the traditional home and modern sleek look.

D: This is the fountain is something that could look romantic and could take the place of the grass possibly.
